Students Urged To Purchase Dance Tickets

Students are urged to purchase their tickets for the Performance of Pearl Primus and her dance company as soon as possible, according to Mrs. Norma Rae Arington of the women's physical education department.

The famous Negro dancer will appear with her troupe in the fieldhouse on April 19.

Aim of the group is to show the heritage and dignity of the Negro's dancing and music. Miss Primus' African dances were composed and demonstrated after long and patient study. She is ready to explain unfamiliar gestures and movements, to show they are not as primitive as they may appear and often portray noble impulses.

Miss Primus is the foremost exponent of the Negro dance. According to Dr. C. Hart, director of BYU Physical Education, Miss Primus appeared in command performance before the Royal Family of England during her recently-completed European tour.

Receiving the last and largest Julius Rosenwald fellowship, Miss Primus studied dance, music and art in the interior of Africa. At the present time, she is working on a Ph.D. degree in Anthropology at Columbia University.

Survey Points Toward Full Readership of UNIVERSE

The society and sports editors are your masters, and the Little Man on Campus is your hero.

That is if you are an average reader of the UNIVERSE, according to a readership survey made by the marketing and advertising classes of Brigham Young University.

Among some of the most interesting information disclosed was that while men may devote most of their attention to the sports section, they are not adverse to giving the attention to such matters as dieting, health, social units and their activities.

And women, besides being avid society page devotees, are almost as interested readers of the sports page as men.

And almost everyone at BYU reads the cartoon by Bibben "Little Man on Campus."

Pictures. Noted. According to the results of this survey, made of over 600 students in five colleges of the school, and of representatives of all four classes and graduate students, pictures in the UNIVERSE, especially those on the front page, receive almost a hundred per cent of the attention of both male and female readers.

Editors, letters to the editor and other controversial or opinionated material also receives high readership. As a rule, more cords read the UNIVERSE than men, although this is not necessarily the case in stories dealing with science, inventions, and current economic developments and inventions. It is also significant that the best readers of the paper are freshmen and seniors, while the fewest number of readers are found among the sophomores. Students are interested in reading about social activities over most other material.

Contrary to popular belief, men are more interested in pictures and illustrations of men, and women are more interested in pictures and illustrations of women, especially in advertisements.

As to advertisements, both men and women read most of the ads and probably more than they realize. Ads directed toward the male readers receive more attention than similar ads for women, and freshmen read advertisements more than members of any other class.

DOWN THE CLOTHES HATCH

BY BOB HATCH

It's happened! Unless some unforeseen development once again blankets Utah country before this column is printed, I think it can be safely stated that spring has finally arrived.

Spring, the season when a young man's thoughts turn lightly to what the girls have been thinking about all winter. Spring, when a young man's fancy, but a young girl's even fancier. And before long it will be June, . . . and what is it rare as an "A" in June?

After that opening you know what made Trovatore II.

But we're up in arms. . . the weather's fine, and so is the new collection of men's wearables you will find at Clark's The Man's Shop at 245 North University.

Take for instance the new Superbia tie. . . they call it "Mr. 1952." Quite a versatile number this. It's a long and narrow item, so you can use it in a kamlet's or casual bow (you know, Frank Sinatra and poets in general made them popular years ago), or as a four-in-hand tie. If you want to kill a couple of sparrows with one boulder then loan it to your girl friend when you're not using it. . . . You can wear it as a giraffe or in her hair as a bow or even on her blouse as a tie. I'm serious, you can do all these things with a Superbia. $1.50 at Clark's. (Unbelievable note: If your grades weren't what you thought they should be last quarter they can be used to strangle your professors.)

There was a young man from France
Who waited ten years for a chance
He muffed it. . .

Latest economic theory (just off the press) is: If every boy in the United States could read every girl's mind, gasoline consumption would drop off 90 per cent.

Seniors, get your handkerchiefs! Clark's bought 12 hope- and prepare to cast a salty tear or two. . . graduation day is on the horizon. That means a lot of dress-up occasions that will call for a graduation suit. Clark's is there for you. Lay away the suit of your choice for graduation and pick it up later on. . . suits are priced economically from $47.50 up. And the brands are strictly elite. Campus Togs and Society brand in flannel, tweeds and gabardines from Clark's brand new spring stock.

Also you'll want to pick up a Lancer button-down spring shirt. They come in the soft collar models with short sleeves in Dan River plumbach checks, daisy dale, rust, blue, grey and green. Just $4.95 at Clark's.

A Look at Ourselves

Hawaiian Coed Describes Mainland Occurrences

In Easter of 1950, two years ago, I remember telling Mother how I dreaded going to the United States to continue my education. It was the fear, I guess, of the thought of leaving home, loved ones, friends, and everything else to which I was accustomed.

Since my parents have vacationed on the mainland several times, and since all of my neighbors are originally from the U.S., I had a pretty good picture of what I was to expect in states.

As the time of departure drew near, the fear which I had began to disappear for I was too busy preparing for the trip to fear anything.

Surprised by Cold

The plane ride to San Francisco wasn't as gay as I had expected it to be, for I presently cried myself out all the way. This was my first feeling of homesickness. It took nine hours and forty-five minutes before we saw land again. I was glad to set foot on solid ground, but there was one thing Mother and my neighbors neglected to tell me, and that was San Francisco's mighty COOL.

After three days of trying to get used to the coldness, I was due to board the California Zephyr, but with a cold in my head. This was my first train ride, and I certainly didn't fit it along with the glorious sights which I beheld while going through the Feather River Canyon.

At 6:30 a.m., the next day, I found myself in Provo with a cold and a soul in sight. I think if the university wasn't named after Brigham Young, a leader I had learned to love, I would have gone back home.

Tobacco-less Air

On my way to the dormitory, I suddenly realized that I was inhaling (if you'll pardon my terminology) 80 per cent tobacco-less air. I then noticed that Provo, although smaller than I had expected it to be, had a clover drinking fountain system. And as I gazed up to the mountains, I was quite amazed that they actually surrounded the place. I couldn't get adjusted to this fact because everytime I'd face a mountain, I'd argue with myself as to whether it was North, South, East or West. By this time, I was wondering what Provo would look like with snow.

However, I felt strange in this land, not because this was America for I was born on American soil, but because the characters, customs, and weather conditions here are so different from that of home.

But I am glad that I had the gumption to stay, for the experi-

Since then a silly letter mentioning this was America for I was born on American soil, but because the characters, customs, and weather conditions here are so different from that of home.

I love the Y. I am thankful for being a part of this great university, and for what it stands, and I am thankful for all the many friends I have met here.

I hope that all of you will have the opportunity of visiting Hawaii as I have had the privilege of coming to your home land. And when you get there, I am sure that the hospitality there will be as warm as yours has been to me.

Give 'em A Hand

by Ted Johnson

Tomorrow marks the beginning of spring athletic competition on the Brigham Young University campus, and it brings to mind the annual problem of studentbody support for spring activities. The coaches have expressed hopes that spectators will show more interest in the activities that are on docket this spring.

Tomorrow, baseball, tennis and golf will start their 1952 home seasons at the Y. The baseball games, per usual, will be played in Timp park where there are excellent facilities for a large number of fans to enjoy a good game on the ball diamond. This park is kept in fine condition and in good repair, compared to other parks I have visited in the past few summers. There is plenty of parking space and no excuse for fans to shun the diamond other than their own indifference.

The interest shown by the fans will go a long way in giving the athletes a big boost on their way to success. If you don't agree, ask anyone who has ever participated in any competitive sport about the effect of a crowd of spectators on the players. Without a crowd that is interested in the game, the athletes themselves don't get as "fired-up" as they would if fans were present. Interest falls off both on the players' side and the observers' side.

Ted Johnson

This year's tennis team is better than most of us realize. They take on Montana University tomorrow on the Y court and Coach Dixon and his squad have indicated that they would appreciate a good turn-out to watch these matches. There will probably be bleachers installed so fans can watch the proceedings. A good fast tennis match in the warm sun can be plenty exciting.

From the turn-outs observed on the tennis courts lately, there are many students who are interested in the game of tennis. It looks to me like this would be an excellent time to see some good men with a tennis racket in action and pick up some pointers.

All-in-all, the prospects for spring sports at the Y are much brighter than they have been for many a moon. Tracksters have been getting into condition for quite a while, and the top talent that Coach Robison has to work with gives good indication that the Cat thrifolds should do themselves up proud in meets this season. Tennis prospects are the best they have been here for quite a sprinkle. Six returning lettermen and three other top performers give the netters plenty of depth, experience and general ability with the racket.

Baseball has been somewhat of a surprise so far this season. In their southern tour, the horse-hiders collected one win and one loss which is not bad for the first two appearances of the year. Their loss came at the hand of Nellis Air Force base in Las Vegas which has compiled a list of 17 victories already this season. Five of their games were against Utah who won only one contest out of the five. Judging from this, the Cats should give the Utes a plenty hard go when they clash this spring.

Spring football practice got underway early this week with a crowd of gridiron hopefuls looking forward to getting a crack at next year's varsity squad.

These activities give students an ample opportunity to get in on some excitement on the courts, the links, the clinders or the diamond. The athletes could stand studentbody support, let's not let them down.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK—Paul Salisbury and Harold Christensen talk over a few points in preparation for tomorrow's Montana matches. Nine duels will be played.

Varsity Tennis Squad Makes Final Preparations for Grizzly Matches

Tennis competition will get underway on the Brigham Young University courts tomorrow at 2 p.m. when the Cougar tennis squad plays host to the Montana Grizzlies in the opening matches of the 1952 tennis season.

Coach Buck Dixon's crew is expected to rank high in Skyline Eight competition this year because of outstanding material returning from last year's club and the addition of several outstanding newcomers to the netter's roster. Returning to the lineup for the Y this spring are Dick Moody, singles champion of the conference for two years, Paul Salisbury, Harold Christensen, Lamar Rawlings and Dick Boyle. All of these men have earned letters.

Supplementing the list of lettermen are Dean Larsen, who capped the Provo City tennis this last year; Judd Flowers, a California prospect; and Stan Collins, a former Class B title holder from B.Y. High. Besides this group, there are several other fine prospects working out on the courts who may advance to a berth on the varsity squad. However, these fine net-men will constitute the Y lineup when they meet the Montanans tomorrow afternoon.

Six singles matches and three doubles matches will constitute the list of battles on docket. In out at the courts, where plenty of space is available for spectators, usually bright prospects this season.

The tennis squad will travel to Salt Lake City for a try at the these matches are urged to turn Utah Redskins next Friday.

Montanans Visit Provo; Battles Set Tomorrow

Montana's Grizzlies will be the first team to invade the Brigham Young University campus for spring sports competition this season.

The Grizzlies will engage the Y tennis squad in matches to be held on the Y courts tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m. and will also have a go with the Cougar golfers, according to the latest report.

Rounding out the list of activities tomorrow afternoon will be a baseball game between the Montana club and the up-and-coming BYU diamondmen. The baseball games will be played in Timp Park. A double header is scheduled for the Montanans' trip to Provo, with the second game to be played Saturday afternoon.

On the tennis courts, a group of top tennis men will carry the Y colors in six singles and three doubles matches. Dick Moody, former conference champion, will be on hand to spearhead the Y drive.

The Montana duels will put the Y spring athletic program on the road and prepare the teams for more competition which is scheduled nearly every weekend until the end of the school year.

Thinclads Polish for First Trackmeet

Coach Clarence Robinson's squad of thinclads have shifted their workouts out of doors onto the track in the Y stadium and are preparing for their first meet of the season in Provo on April 19. Opponents for the thinclad will be the Grizzlies from Montana.

Working with a large group of prospects, Coach Robinson is aiming at having a well-rounded team of tracksters for the full slate of meets that are scheduled every weekend until the final week of school.

One of the outstanding men in the squad is Dick Puenning, Phoenix, a sprinter who has been looking good in the century and the 220. Dick won the national junior college sprint championship last year.

After next week's meeting with

Montana, the crew will assist in the annual BYU invitational track meet that is scheduled for April 25-26. The following week will find them in Salt Lake City for a dual meet with the Redskins.

On May 10, the Utah Aggies will be the guests of the Y team. The final meet of the season will be the western division meet to be held this year in Salt Lake City on May 17.

Swimmers Take Advantage Of Ro-She Pool

The fact that Brigham Young University doesn't have a swimming pool on campus can't keep those water-loving lasses in the women's physical education department away from the cool clear liquid.

Every Tuesday and Thursday, 153 potential Esther Williams load into buses and head for Park Ro-She in Springville where under the guidance of BYU's swimming program director Miss Cynthia Cowan, they are learning various swimming strokes.

Working with Miss Cowan are Carmen Bitter, Lu Markham, Dixie Robinson and Shirley Allen as student instructors.

I am Industry-1952

Unleashed into a new world,
I had a bustling, brawling, bruising youth.
I was a potential giant awakening in a world of giants.
People were hurt when I first stirred in life;
Then I grew and learned
That I mustered and knew that
Though I work with water and metal and chemicals and fire,
I am more than these things.
I am the people's work!
I am the people's dream!
I am the people!

With maturity, I have grown, too, in social responsibility.
To the people.
To America!
And even to those beyond our shores.
My efforts are not in selfish interest.
Rather, all my best and bravest strives for the good of the many.
I am the American way!

Now, I have sworn that these things shall be:
I shall deliver ever-better products to those who use my fruits!
I shall offer equal opportunity to those who work at my side
Whatever their race!
Whatever their creed!
Whatever their color!
Whatever their national origin!
I shall forever do my part to keep America great!

And why?
Because only in this way can I remain a healthy force in our free world.
For when I am healthy, America prospers
And tyrants tremble before my might.

I am America's life-blood!
I am America's strength!
I am the bulwark of the World's freedom!
